

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

3Si and M.C. Dean Establish a Global Partnership to Expand Access of Intelligence-Led Platforms Worldwide

Malvern, PA & Tysons, VA – July 13, 2026 — 3Si, a trusted technology partner to public safety and private-sector organizations, today announced a global value-added reseller (VAR) relationship with M.C. Dean, a global systems integration and technology solutions leader. The relationship expands customer access to DirectToDispatch™, 3Si's police dispatch-ready intelligence platform, along with Surveill™, mission-critical VMS capabilities, and purpose-built asset protection solutions across global markets.

Through this relationship, M.C. Dean will offer 3Si solutions as part of its broader portfolio of security, technology, and infrastructure services. Together, the companies will provide organizations with coordinated security solutions that combine 3Si's proven technologies with M.C. Dean's engineering, deployment, and lifecycle management expertise.

"M.C. Dean's technical capabilities, operational experience, and leadership in complex environments make them a strong strategic partner for 3Si," said Matt Kushner, Chief Executive Officer at 3Si. "Together, we are positioned to help organizations strengthen operational resilience, improve situational awareness, and better protect people, assets, and critical infrastructure in an increasingly dynamic threat environment."

As a VAR partner, M.C. Dean will support customers seeking security solutions that will help deter theft, improve asset visibility, support recovery operations, and deliver dispatch-ready intelligence during verified incidents requiring law enforcement response.

"Enterprise scale customers today need scalable, reliable security solutions that are intelligent and improve operational decisioning" said Eric Dean, Chief Technology Officer at M.C. Dean. "By combining 3Si's technologies with M.C. Dean's Vision AI and InfraLink® capabilities, we deliver an integrated security operations platform that enables our customers to triage alarms and focus on the highest priority security incidents"

This relationship reflects 3Si's continued investment in expanding its channel ecosystem and increasing access to its security solutions across commercial, government, infrastructure, and enterprise environments.
