3Si and Camect Announce Technology Partnership to Connect Video Intelligence with Public Safety

Integration brings Camect's verified video intelligence and 3Si's DirectToDispatch™ together to deliver actionable incident context when every second counts.

Malvern, PA & Mountain View, CA – October 29, 2026

3Si, a trusted technology partner to public safety and private-sector organizations, today announced a strategic technology partnership with Camect, a provider of intelligent video security technology. The partnership connects Camect's AI-powered video intelligence with 3Si's DirectToDispatch (DTD®), creating a secure pathway for verified, incident-specific information to reach public safety in real-time.

The integration combines Camect's ability to identify and verify relevant activity captured by security cameras with DTD's ability to share actionable intelligence with public safety. Together, the technologies help bridge the gap between detecting potential threats and providing responders with meaningful context to support situational awareness and more informed decision-making.

"Effective security is about more than identifying an incident. It is about getting the right information to the right people at the right time," said Charlie Erickson, CTO at 3Si. "Our partnership with Camect connects intelligent video detection with actionable public safety intelligence, helping organizations maximize their security investments while contributing to safer communities."

Through this partnership, organizations benefit from:

- Intelligent detection and verification: Identifying relevant security activity while reducing unnecessary alerts.
- Actionable incident intelligence: Securely sharing relevant information with public safety to support more informed response.
- Greater control: Organizations maintaining control over security systems and what information is shared.

"This integration with 3Si empowers our dealers and the communities they serve to maintain control of their video data while securely sharing relevant information with the people who need it most: our first responders," said Ron Grubbs, VP of Sales & Business Development at Camect. "3Si has been a trusted partner in public safety for decades, and we are incredibly proud to work alongside them to help strengthen community safety and support those on the front lines."

The partnership reflects both companies' commitment to connecting intelligent technology with actionable information to help protect people, property, and communities.
