3Si Welcomes Security Leader TJ Klomp to Advisory Board

Former Amazon Chief Physical Security Officer brings decades of law enforcement and global security leadership experience to 3Si

Malvern, PA – October 6, 2026 – 3Si, a leader in actionable crime intelligence and asset protection solutions, today announced the appointment of TJ Klomp to its Advisory Board. Klomp brings decades of experience spanning law enforcement and global corporate security as 3Si continues to advance solutions connecting private-sector security with public safety.

Klomp spent more than 25 years at Amazon, most recently serving as Chief Physical Security Officer. During his tenure, he helped build and scale global security capabilities, including protective intelligence, emergency response and physical security programs. Prior to Amazon, Klomp served with the Kirkland Police Department in Washington, where he was a detective, worked undercover and served on the SWAT team.

"TJ has spent his career looking at security from both sides, as a law enforcement officer responding to incidents and as an executive responsible for protecting people and operations at extraordinary scale," said Matt Kushner, CEO of 3Si. "That experience will bring an important perspective to our Advisory Board as we continue to innovate and strengthen the connection between our customers and law enforcement."

Klomp's experience also closely aligns with 3Si's continued expansion of DirectToDispatch™ (DTD®) which delivers verified, real-time crime intelligence directly to police dispatch centers. The solution provides responding officers with critical situational awareness, including video, audio, GPS location data, suspect descriptions and weapons information, to support safer, more informed response planning. 3Si currently delivers verified crime intelligence to more than 10,400 law enforcement agencies in North America.

"I've known about 3Si for years, dating back to my law enforcement career and throughout my time at Amazon," said Klomp. "As a detective and SWAT officer, I knew what it was like to walk into a scene without enough information. DTD addresses that challenge by getting officers critical information before they arrive. I've also seen security from the private-sector side, and the principle is the same: good information, delivered quickly, helps keep people safe. 3Si has built a solution that benefits both sides. Businesses gain a prioritized, more-informed police response, while officers gain greater situational awareness."

As a member of 3Si's Advisory Board, Klomp will provide strategic counsel as the company continues to expand its technology, partnerships and ability to deliver actionable intelligence that helps protect people, assets and communities.
